completed and will involve the line manager and the Business Resource Manager. As part of the decision-making process they will normally meet with the individual to gain more information from the person about the nature and circumstances of any conviction.

The suitability for employment of a person with a criminal record will clearly vary, depending upon the nature of the job and the details and circumstances of any convictions. The decision will be made on the basis of a risk assessment to enable the applicant's criminal record and circumstances to be assessed in relation to the tasks he or she will be required to perform and the circumstances in which the work is to be carried out.

The following job-related factors should be taken into account:

- Does the post involve direct contact our customers or other members of the public?
- What level of supervision will the post-holder receive?
- What level of trust is involved?
- Will the nature of the job present any opportunities for the post-holder to re-offend in the place of work?
- Does the post involve any direct responsibility for finance or items of value?
- Does the post involve any contact with children or other vulnerable groups or employees?

The assessment is also likely to include consideration of the following factors relating to the individual's offence(s):-

- The seriousness of the offence(s) and relevance to the safety of other employees and the public etc;
- The length of time since the offence(s) occurred;
- Relevant information offered by the person about the circumstances that led to the offence(s) being committed, for example the influence of domestic or financial difficulties;
- The degree of remorse, or otherwise, expressed by the person and their motivation to change;
- Whether the offence was a one-off, or part of a history of offending;
- Whether person's circumstances have changed since the offence(s) was committed, making re-offending less likely;
- Whether the offence has since been decriminalised.

Following careful and thorough consideration of all these matters and consultation with the Business Resource Manager and the Line Manager, a decision will be made as to whether the individual should be appointed. If appropriate we may seek further information from relevant bodies when reaching this decision. If the decision is not to appoint, a letter will be sent to the individual confirming the reasons for this decision.

The above process will also be followed in the event of a criminal conviction coming to light after the
